The Journal of British Studies, founded in 1961, is published at Trinity College under auspices of the Conference on British Studies. It was the result of the imaginative generosity of a Trinity alumnus, Frederick E. Hasler (Hon. LL.D. 1957) who contributed funds to the College for the specific purpose of establishing a learned periodical in the field of British history. Several Trinity alumni subsequently contributed to the fund and Trinity College now supports the publication of the Journal.

The Conference on British Studies is the official organization in the United States and Canada of scholars working in the field of British history and culture; its status as such is recognized by the American Historical Association of which it is an affiliate. Its nearly eight hundred members are drawn from forty-eight states and five provinces. It convenes twice each year, usually at New York University.

The Conference awards a prize triennially for the best first book by an American or Canadian scholar.

The Conference sponsors a considerable publications programme. It publishes the Journal of British Studies at Trinity College; the British Studies Intelligencer, a newsletter, at Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas; Studies in British History and Culture, an annual series of monographs, at the University of Bridgeport, Connecticut; Archives in British History and Culture, an annual series devoted to the publication of documents, at West Virginia University, Morgantown; and Current Research in British Studies, a quadrennial survey of research in progress in the United States and Canada, the last edition of which appeared in 1969 at Southern Methodist University. The Conference has begun a new series, to be published by the Cambridge University Press, of biographical and historical studies of men and women who were makers and shapers of the English experience.

In addition to the Conference on British Studies, there are four affiliates: the Pacific Coast Conference on British Studies, the Midwest Conference on British Studies, the Southern Conference on British Studies, and the New England Conference on British Studies. Each of these vital autonomous groups has its own officers, programme, and other activities. There are also local groups centred in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Detroit, and Pittsburgh.

The Journal of British Studies appears twice in the academic year, in the autumn and in the spring. The annual subscription is $5.00. Cheques for subscriptions and enquiries concerning advertising rates should be directed to the Business Manager, British Studies, Box 1315, Trinity College, Hartford, Connecticut, 06106.

Volume X, No. 1 will be published in November, 1970.
"... an impressive piece of research ..."  (Daily Telegraph)

Legends of the South Sea

ANTONY ALPERS

$8.65

Antony Alpers reconstructs the myths, legends and poetry of the pre-European period of Polynesian culture in one of the most delightful volumes of scholarship to appear on the N.Z. scene for some years. His introductory essay is in itself a gem of information, and he includes a scrupulously balanced selection of material from all the major centres of Polynesia.

"This faultlessly produced book (germane illustrations, elegant and uncluttered outlay) ... will replace every preceding work. This volume must be the best book-present of the year."  (Zealandia)

"... a work of immense value."  Northern Advocate

"... he makes us aware of the unity of the great Polynesian family. . . "  (Robert Goodman in Auckland Star)

"... a blend of sound scholarship and compelling narrative . . . will be appreciated by those who wish to know more of the cultural heritage of Polynesia . . . "  (Evening Star, Dunedin)

Britain Europe and the Modern World 1918-1968

PAUL T. RICHARDSON

The first book to be published in the Britain, Europe and the World series deals with the history of the world from 1918-1968, with emphasis on Britain and her place in world events. International relations, social, economic and cultural developments are all considered, and emphasis is placed on developing countries. A special feature is the frequent use of quotation from contemporary sources. This series is designed to meet the needs of able pupils in the 12-17 age group.

Over 60 photographs; over 30 maps.
