TE RANGI HIROA — The life of Sir Peter Buck

J. B. Condliffe

J. B. Condliffe provides a wealth of background information and anecdote about his friend, Sir Peter Buck, in the first full length biography to be written about this great New Zealander. The product of two worlds, he inherited the charm, the dignity and the humour of the Polynesian, as well as the dedication and resource of the European. His achievements stand out on every page of this book.

THE RESPONSIBLE SOCIETY IN NEW ZEALAND

W. B. Sutch

The full text of Dr W. B. Sutch's outstanding submission to the Royal Commission on Social Security. It deals with the most pressing social issues in New Zealand today, and develops a coherent vision for the future. "Should be used in all economic, political science, public finance and sociology courses — and even education, law, psychology and history . . . each chapter (self-contained) should be discussed, discussed and discussed . . ." (Review in Salient).

THOROUGHLY A MAN OF THE WORLD

R. E. Wright — St. Clair

A prize-winning biography of Sir David Monro, eminent early colonist and Speaker of the House 1861-70. The author draws extensively on copious diaries and letters to provide an engrossing picture of the man and his times, with particular reference to the early days of Nelson, and activities in the House of Representatives. "It is obvious that much painstaking research has gone into the writing of this biography. Its documentation is thorough, and it touches New Zealand life at so many points as to give it a wide appeal . . ." (Review in The Press).

In 1970,
American Airlines added
another university city
to its network.

AUCKLAND, NEW ZEALAND

From Auckland we can fly you to 44 United States cities. To universities, or vacation spots. Across the Pacific, to Mexico, Canada . . . the Caribbean. And to connections for every major European capital.

Thousands of feet above the blue Pacific you can enjoy the taste of true American hospitality. Lavish meals that are actually cooked on board while we fly (never simply reheated). Fast, friendly service, for we love to entertain.

Like to listen to a symphony? Lie back and enjoy the privacy of Astro-Stereo* music through your individual headset. Or watch a first-run movie in Astro Color*, again with individual sound.

Or just relax. American Airlines make flying a great experience.

*Small charge for Astro Color and AstroStereo headset. (An IATA regulation).
