

DATABASE OF PATIENT FILES 1948–1955

Queen Elizabeth Hospital
Rotorua

Of interest to historians, sociologists and medical researchers

From January 2002 Queen Elizabeth Hospital in Rotorua, a specialist hospital for rheumatism, arthritis and allied conditions, will offer access to an extensive database containing information of over 1500 patients who visited the hospital between 1948–1955. Funded by the Community Trust and compiled by historian Antje Braren, the information could be used in conjunction with secured sets of patients case files and punch cards from the same period. Historians, sociologists or others researching specialist hospital treatments, medical conditions, pain management, social and cultural trends in New Zealand could find the resource useful.

Access to the records is subject to approval by the Community Trust.

Contact Elizabeth Harding (Education & Training Coordinator Marketing Liaison) QEH, PO Box 1342, Whakaue Street, Rotorua.

Email: Liz.Harding@qehospital.co.nz

JPS

THE JOURNAL OF THE POLYNESIAN SOCIETY

Editor: Judith Huntsman

Recent and forthcoming articles

Sir Raymond Firth: The Creative Contribution of Indigenous People to their Ethnography

Merata Kawharu: Kaitiakitanga: A Maori Anthropological Perspective of the Maori Socio-Environmental Ethnic of Resource Management

Michael Reilly: Sex and War in Ancient Polynesia

Jan Tent and Paul Geraghty: Exploding Sky or Exploded Myth? The Origin of Papālagi

Serge Tcherkezoff: The Samoan Category of Matai/Chief: A Singularity in Polynesia?

David Luders: Retoka Revisited and Roimata Revised

Anne Di Piazza and Eric Pearthree: An Island for Gardens, An Island for Birds and Voyaging: A Settlement Pattern for Kiritimati and Tabuaeran, Two "Mystery Islands" in the Northern Lines, Republic of Kiribati

Also Reviews of all major publications on Maori and Pacific peoples

The JPS is published quarterly by the Polynesian Society, Inc. Members of the Society receive the JPS upon payment of their annual dues, presently $NZ50.00. Institutional subscriptions are available at $NZ100.00. Applications for membership or subscription requests should be addressed to: Assistant Secretary, The Polynesian Society, c/- Maori Studies Department, The University of Auckland, Private Bag 92019, Auckland, New Zealand. email: jps@auckland.ac.nz

NEW ZEALAND Geographer

The New Zealand Geographer specialises, particularly, in publishing research on New Zealand, Australia and the Southwest Pacific region, but generally encourages communication among geographers whatever their professional or regional specialisation.

Volume 57 Number 1, April 2001 contains:

- | | |
|-----------|--|
| EDITORIAL | Celebrating Geography: Home and Away
Richard Bedford and Robyn Longhurst |
| RESEARCH | Gendered Work: Female Labour in Pipfruit Production in New Zealand and Chile
Beatriz Manz and Paul Spoonley
Dealing with Ambiguity: On the Interdependence of Change in Agriculture and Rural Communities
Alun E. Joseph, Jacqueline M. Lidgard and Richard Bedford
Negotiating Technology - (Re)considering the Use of GIS by Indigenous Peoples
Stephen T. Engle |
| POLICY | Young Workers in a Deindustrialising Economy: The Case of Christchurch, 1976-1996
Jane Higgins |
| KEYNOTE | 2001: Reflections on the Spatial Odysseys of New Zealanders
Richard Bedford |

The New Zealand Geographer and the New Zealand Journal of Geography are published by the New Zealand Geographical Society. Annual dues in 2001, which cover a subscription to both the New Zealand Geographer and the New Zealand Journal of Geography, are NZ$60, for individuals in New Zealand, NZ$38 for full-time students and retired persons in New Zealand, and NZ$95.00 for schools in New Zealand. Subscriptions for overseas individual members and schools in 2001 are NZ$70 (Australia and the Pacific) and NZ$80 (rest of world). Institutional subscriptions for 2001 are NZ$170 for members in New Zealand and Australia and the Pacific, and NZ$220 for the rest of world.

All business correspondence, including subscriptions from members overseas and intending members, and libraries and institutions in New Zealand and abroad, should be addressed to:

The Secretary, New Zealand Geographical Society,
Department of Geography, University of Waikato, Private Bag 3105
Hamilton, New Zealand

For people who want to look hard at the world . . .

Wide-ranging essays on history and the present, politics and law. Provocative, philosophical, narrative, and challenging, they write of legal claims and constitutional doubt; they tell particular stories of redemption and loss, of the political place of knowledge, of uncritical Pakeha biographies; they document some of the claims process, and debate its consequences.

Edited by Andrew Sharp and P.G. McHugh
RRP $39.95

Recent decades have seen a tremendous upsurge of interest among the indigenous peoples of New Zealand and Australia in their history. Telling Stories looks at the place of life stories and of memory in history: who tells life stories, the purpose for which they are told; the role of story and history in the politics of land claims; the way language impacts on research and writing.

Edited by Bain Attwood and Fiona Magowan
RRP $39.95

BRIDGET WILLIAMS BOOKS

Leading-edge historical writing

The very best essays from The New Zealand Journal of History written by New Zealand's leading historians—Angela Ballara, James Belich, Judith Binney, Barbara Brookes, Tom Brooking, Caroline Daley, Raewyn Dalziel, Miles Fairburn, James Holt, Duncan Mackay, Eric Olssen, Claudia Orange, P.S. O'Connor, Vincent O'Malley, Jock Phillips, Tipene O'Regan, J.G.A. Pocock, R.M. Ross, R.C.J. Stone, Ann Trotter, Alan Ward and Dean Wilson.

Edited by Judith Binney
RRP $49.95

BRIDGET WILLIAMS BOOKS

